Brenda Darlene Farmer

A Life Well Lived.... Gone from our sight, But Never from our Hearts.
December 30, 1955 - March 16, 2026

Brenda Darlene Farmer, born on December 30, 1955, left this world on March 16, 2026, leaving behind a vibrant legacy of adventure and joy. Brenda's life was characterized by her unyielding spirit and zest for new experiences. Her love for thrill-seeking was evident in her passion for skydiving, where she found freedom and exhilaration high above the earth. This adventurous spirit was a hallmark of her life, inspiring those around her to embrace life's challenges with courage and enthusiasm.

Beyond her love for skydiving, Brenda relished the excitement of social gatherings, especially at bingo halls and casinos. Her enthusiasm for bingo was matched only by her love for attending concerts, where she found joy in the music and camaraderie that these events offered. Brenda's presence at any gathering was sure to light up the room, her laughter and warmth drawing people to her.

Brenda's life was marked by her boundless energy and her ability to find joy in the simple pleasures of life. Her adventurous nature and love for entertainment were balanced by a deep appreciation for the connections she made and the people she shared her life with.

She was preceded in death by Christine Dowling and Robert Dowling, Sr. Brenda is survived by Greg Farmer, Stephanie Bradley, Laura Jostmeyer (Robert), Robert Dowling, Jr, Tristan Bradley, Kayla Bradley (Andrew), Addison Bradley, Robyn Cherry, Elias Vitela, and Donny McConkey. Each of these individuals was touched by her vivacious spirit and the joy she brought into their lives.

Brenda's legacy is one of adventure, joy, and a reminder to live life fully and fearlessly. Her unyielding spirit and zest for life will continue to inspire those who knew her, as they carry forward her memory with love and admiration.

“ When young people appreciate the things of older generations they say they have an old soul. Brenda had a young soul. I was definitely blessed to call her my friend but even more blessed that she called me HER friend. My favorite memory is watching her dance her heart out on NYE at the casino. She will be missed so so much.

“ Oh mom, there are so many memories and so many things I could write about. It would end up being a book! You were/are my most favorite person in this entire world. I can only hope I made you proud and continue to live through your legacy. Your beauty, kind soul, and loving/caring personality is one for the books. I know you're still with all of us. I love and miss you so much, but I know you'll visit me soon. Until then momma, see you later ❤️☐

“ Sissy, I will continue you love and miss you forever. Life will not be the same without you here. My heart is broken, to have to say ill see you later. But I am so glad I got to to you I loved you one more time before you went home to be with mom, dad and Rosie. The peace you now have is beyond. Ensure and I will always be grateful for everything you have shown me through the years. I know your dancing in the sky!
